

Yoga Vacation to the Villas of Elixir De Careyes with Peter Barnett

June 30th - July 5th, 2006 (Independence Day Weekend)

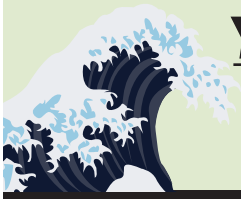

The Villas of Elixir De Careyes are truly some of the most beautiful in the world. Many on our last retreat said they had never seen anything quite as spectacular before. By special arrangement the owners have made these exclusive luxury villas available for us again. Each villa is fully staffed by a family who takes care of your every need from preparing delicious meals and snacks (their guacamole is the best) to turning down the beds at night with a beautiful adornment of bougainvillea petals.

The yoga studio is open to the sounds and smells of the surrounding jungle. Practicing there in the morning to the symphony of birdsongs is an experience you'll never forget. After working up an appetite you'll be ready to indulge in a healthy breakfast served at your villa. There will be ample free time to go to the beach, or horseback ride, golf, or tour the area. Lunch is served mid afternoon and an optional second yoga practice is scheduled for early evening. The rhythm in Mexico is unique with days that are long and sweet. The locals call it 'Ritmo Mexicana'. We all meet for dinner which is presented around nine. And then we do it again, five more times. You'll find it hard to leave.
